The mills ran in all over 4000 looms some on print goods. Some 800 people are thrown out of employment.

The failure of Henry Arnold & Co of North Adams print works is even more disastrous than it at first appeared. The liabilities, it is thought will rise over rather than fall below the estimate of $1 250 000 and not less than 1 200 men women and children in the six mills have been thrown out of employment

WASHINGTON CITY.

What the Times Thinks.

The Times Washington special speaking of the message says it was generally supposed Springer had prepared a belligerent resolution in reference to the disposition of the message which would have intensified the blunder made by Blackburn in introducing the resolution of inquiry, and the Democrats were pleased that Cox Speaker pro tem refused to give him the opportunity to bring additional humiliation upon them. The Republicans are delighted with the message and pronounce it the cleverest that Grant ever made. The Democrats admit the force of the President's arguments and the correctness of his conclusions. Most of them freely acknowledge he has completely outflanked them, and that he has successfully driven [illegible] out of the coming Presidential campaign. The comments of the Democrats on the message were amusing. One remarked 'First Clymer made a great mistake in the Belknap affair, then Caulfield brought Davenport and trouble upon the Democracy, next Springer gave Morton a chance to make a terrific raid and now Blackburn has given [illegible] this deserved castigation. [illegible] of Texas thinks the message a proper and dignified reply to an improper inquiry and invaluable as a historical paper. Thomas of Maryland thinks the Democratic side deserves the rebuke so admirably administered for permitting the inquiry to be made. The resolution is conceded to have been imprudent and improper one which both parties should have united to suppress.

The Sun on the Message

The Sun's Washington special says on the subject of the message. He indulged or rather Fish did for him in political thrusts at the majority members. The message was written in the State Department. The real object of the message was to rebuke those who call for original papers from the departments and the purpose is to delay investigations as much as possible.

The President to-day said that in addition to his determination to veto the diplomatic and consular bill if it reached him as it passed the House he would let the entire service go for years recall all the ministers and consuls, and so disgust the people of the country with Democratic reform that the majority of that party would never again occupy seats in the House of Representatives.

The Herald's Views of the Message.

The Herald's Washington special speaking of the message, says on the whole it was acknowledged on both sides that the President has made his points well and with good temper and took particular care not to tell the House how many days he had been absent from the seat of government. The President has been during his whole administration very careful upon one point he has never traveled out of the boundaries of the United States. During his visit to Niagara Falls he even refused to cross to the Clifton House. When visiting friends at Thousand Islands, he would not cross to the Canada shore. When, in 1871, he was present at the opening of the European and North American railroad he stopped at Vanceborough near the Canada line. So far as now remembered there has been but one instance of a President going into a foreign country. Van Buren went to Kingston Canada in 1830 and he was much criticised at the time.

The Democratic Candidate.

The movement looking to Judge Davis as a Democratic candidate for president has about spent itself. The chief objection to him is that he is an old Whig. There is a strong opinion among western Democrats of nominating Gen John M Palmer of Illinois. He was an old Democrat before the war became a Republican and fought with distinction became Republican governor and finally became a Democrat on account of Grantism.

Cheever Testifies Again.

Cheever was before the committee again to-day and gave some further hearsay testimony which had been kept secret. Part of it was a statement that Clewes had told him that he had paid Orville Grant $15 000 and Judge Dent $10,000 to get his firm all the government deposits abroad.

Reduction in the Army and Navy Appropriations.

The reduction in the navy bill amounts in reality to nearly $5 600 000 and the appropriation is so fixed that the department cannot spend more than its appropriation during the coming year.

The army bill will be returned to-morrow to the military committee, by Taft to whom it was sent for examination who has reduced it about $1 200 000 with the help of Sherman and other officers. It will probably be still further reduced in the appropriation committee.

Work in the Navy Yards to be Consolidated

The Tribune's Washington special says it is the purpose of the Secretary of the Navy in case of the passage of the new naval appropriation bill now in committee, to consolidate as far as practicable, all work in the navy yards at Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Mare Island. Repairs of wooden vessels will be mostly done at the Brooklyn yard and repairs of iron clads at Philadelphia. No new vessels will be built, whatever and it is the intention to keep 15 first class ships and five iron clads in perfect order all the time. For construction and repairs the appropriation will be $1,900 000 for yards and docks, about $400 000 steam engineering $100 000. Heavy reductions will be made in funds from which extra men are paid at civilian time. At the yards named last year the civil service cost $160,000. This year it is placed at $40 000.

The naval appropriation bill has been increased by the full committee two hundred and seventy thousand dollars, making a total sum of about $12 600 000 or more than five millions less than last year. The bill provides for stopping enlistments until the number of seamen are reduced from 8 500 to 7 500 in the navy, and in the marine corps to 1500 men and 70 officers. It provides that the bulk of all work for the coming year shall be done at the navy yards in Brooklyn League Island Norfolk and Mare Island and practically closes work at the Kittery New London Charleston Washington and Pensacola yards and calls upon the secretary of the Navy to submit to Congress some plan for disposing of the latter yard.

Financial Status of the Presidential Candidates

The Washington correspondence of the Boston Herald says the next President if he be chosen from among candidates now prominent is not likely to be a poor man. On the Republican side Blaine is richest. Bristow and Wilson are worth a quarter of a million. Hayes is still better off. Conkling is believed to possess over $100 000 while Morton and Wheeler have smaller fortunes. Tilden on the Democratic side is wealthiest he being put down at $1 000 000 or $5,000 000. Davis owns more than $1 000 000 and Thurman has a large fortune. Bayard is well to do while Hancock is in comfortable circumstances.

Gen. Schenck to Testify Further.

It is now said that Gen Schenck will testify further to-morrow.

Printing Bureau to be Remodeled.

Besides asking for Clapp's impeachment, the printing committee will ask the passage of a new law remodeling the public printing bureau. This last point reveals the whole purpose of the investigation.

Letter from the House Doorkeeper.

A letter was published here this evening from Fitzhugh doorkeeper of the House to a friend in Texas. The following are a few characteristic extracts. I wish you could be here with me. [illegible] try and come. The government furnishes me with a fine turnout and sparkling pair of horses, and before and after the House session and at recess I have the exclusive use of it. I have [illegible] with members and Senators. I am [illegible] any man in Washington. I am a bigger man than old Grant. I can not put my foot on the floor of the hall but that they make a break for me and at times there are a dozen trying to see me at once for a place for some friend. I have to [illegible] my hat and coat and I cannot turn round without some one [illegible] and call [illegible] when I get all my new appointees broken in I shall have a nice time. Good night.

Blaine's Reply to Riddle.

WASHINGTON, May 5—Blaine replies to Riddle thus:

WASHINGTON D C, May [illegible]

HON A G RIDDLE—Dear Sir: I am totally surprised by the tone of your note touching Mr Knowlton. I was especially careful to make no reference to him that in my judgment could offend the most sensitive feeling. You cannot but be aware that Knowlton's name has been used for some years past and with vindictive force and frequency this winter to injure me. Testimony reported as coming from him but which you know he never gave, has been carried and quoted in all directions and I had to choose between disproving, and tacitly admitting it with all its damaging imputations. But no one save yourself can see in my reference to Knowlton's name the slightest disrespect to his memory. On the contrary it relieves him from the authorship of an unfounded calumny. If however you should judge it to be wise or prudent or expedient, to seek a personal controversy with me over Knowlton's grave I shall greatly regret it and I think in the end you will regret it still more. Nor can I believe that on cool reflection you will permit yourself to do anything so uncalled for and in all respects so extraordinary. Very respectfully

Secret Service Money.

WASHINGTON May 5—The committee on expenditures in the department of justice continued the examination of John I Davenport who spent half an hour in further producing and explaining vouchers. The witness stated he was personally acquainted with every person who had signed these vouchers and knew them all to be genuine. He also knew that every man whose name was on the pay roll, who had received pay for services as shown by those pay rolls and vouchers actually performed the work for which he was paid. Every paper produced here by himself was a bona fide voucher covering money actually expended, that these were all the vouchers he was now able to furnish, and that he vouched for all the money he had expended, except some very small sums of no considerable amount.

Witness said the result of this expenditure has been to suppress and prevent fraudulent voting. Fraudulent voting was considered greater in the Democratic party than in the Republican party. The work was so completely done that it could now be carried on at a very little expense.

By Conger—Has your expenditure of this money consummated the object which you supposed it would and which the president had reason to believe it would when he authorized the money to be paid over to you for this purpose

Answer—It has.

Several questions of like import were asked by Conger to which Caulfield strenuously objected. Conger insisted that it was important to them to know whether the president was justified or not in ordering the expenditure of this money. After some time spent in discussing these questions [illegible] objected to their being answered unless the committee desired it by a vote. The vote showed [illegible] in the affirmative and [illegible] in the negative.

Caulfield—Will you will see what this thing will lead to [illegible]

In answer to Conger witness said the entire cost of his work had been $80 000. The difference between that sum and $13[illegible] 000 [illegible] the full for which vouchers were in the Treasury Department.

[illegible] charge the government for the labor [illegible] years [illegible] the books or for the [illegible] of the books. Answer—For labor and for books themselves.

Q—Do the books belong to the government

A—Yes sir

Q. Then why did you take out a copyright on some of your books in your own name. A. The copyrighted books are no part of those belonging to the government and are my individual property paid for by myself personally for which I can show vouchers. Adjourned until to-morrow.

The Government Mule.

Charges against Conkling.

NEW YORK May 5—The World's Washington special says Conkling has as many charges to answer as he will desire. The gist of the present charge is that he prostituted his influence as a Senator while acting as the counsel for a man named Sargent. The charges are also made that Conkling is using his influence in favor of the Western Union Telegraph Co another of his clients.

Schenck's Connection with the Emma Mine Considered Scandalous

Moth Investigation

WASHINGTON May [illegible]—Geo A Cowles arrived to-day from California as a voluntary witness before Clymer's committee in the investigation regarding the preservation of army clothing and equipages by the firm of G A Cowles & Co. The committee asked Cowles to postpone his evidence for a week. He is desirous of a speedy hearing, as he alleges he can repel by overwhelming evidence any and all charges affecting his personal honor or that of his company.

O'Donovan Rossa Coming to San Francisco.

NEW YORK, May 5—O Donovan Rossa started this morning for San Francisco on invitation of the Irish Nationalists of that city to attend the demonstration at Belmont park on the 17th and to deliver a course of lectures.

Custer's Removal from Command of the Indian Expedition

The statement that President Grant relieved Custer from his command because he was a witness in the Belknap impeachment is officially denied. On the contrary it was the wish of the President that Custer having been subpoenaed as a witness, should remain until he had testified and that in the meantime the Indian expedition should be placed under command of some other officer. Sherman was most emphatic in saying that Custer though relied on as a witness by the impeachment managers was not justified in leaving Washington without notifying the President or himself of his intention of doing so. Neither the Secretary of War nor Sherman protested against relieving Custer nor did Sherman say Custer was not only the best but the only man fit to lead the expedition. The army, Sherman says, possesses a hundred who are as competent for the command of such an expedition as Custer.

Sidney Dillon's Letter to the Judiciary Committee

The President of the Union Pacific has written a long letter to the House judiciary committee in reply to its recent request for [illegible] which shall not in [illegible] the government any portion of the land grants. He says after much consultation with his fellow directors he is unable at this time to submit a new proposition but promises if one should proceed from the committee the company will give it careful consideration and assistance. He holds the company is willing and anxious to meet its indebtedness to the United States by the time it becomes due. In regard to the reconveyance of the land grant he hopes the committee will reconsider and reach a different conclusion as without some such arrangement it will be impossible for the company to pay by 1891. He enters into a long argument to show the justice and desirability of this scheme, and concludes by entreating the Government to take no harsh action against the road as anything looking to that end will be equally injurious to the Government itself.

Sargent's Anti-Chinese Speech.

WASHINGTON May [illegible]—Sargent's speech on the Chinese question made a good deal of impression on the Senators and has since been the subject of frequent reference, especially his showing that the Chinese do not come here for citizenship and their corrupting influence on the morals of the community [illegible] this subject [illegible] It is very important that the people of the Pacific coast should [illegible] evils.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON May 5—The House resolution accepting the invitation to attend the opening ceremonies of the Centennial exhibition and providing for an adjournment from Tuesday to Friday of next week was adopted.

The consideration of the articles of impeachment was then resumed.

Carpenter in response began his argument on the question of jurisdiction. After reviewing the pleading in the case, he said he would endeavor to show first that articles of impeachment could not be maintained against any private citizen in any case whatever; second that, whenever articles of impeachment were exhibited they must set forth every fact essential to constitute a crime impeachable. He stated he would confine himself in his argument to the legal questions, and would be as brief as possible and as dry as a stick. Carpenter read at great length from the debates of the constitutional convention.

Proctor Knott followed on behalf of the managers. After speaking some time he asked for an adjournment as he was suffering physically. This was granted.

The Senate then went into executive business and soon after adjourned.

The House was engaged to-day mainly on private bills. Among those passed was one granting the right of way for railroad purposes through the United States grounds near Benicia. Proceedings in the British Parliament on Extradition.

LONDON May 5—In the House of Lords to-night Lord Derby replying to the question of Earl Granville in regard to Winslow's case, said the government had sent a dispatch to the United States government which could hardly have reached Washington yet and until the result of pending negotiations were known it would be inconvenient to put all the papers before the House.

In the House of Commons this evening Sir Henry James (Liberal) gave notice that he would move at the earliest opportunity a resolution equivalent to a vote of censure to the effect that the royal titles proclamation does not fulfill pledges given by the government during the debate on the bill and therefore the vote on the bill was taken under a misconception.

The careless use of firearms is causing trouble about McMinnville. McDonald's barn received a charge of shot the other day while some members of the family were inside of it. F H Storey had a hog killed by a stray shot not long since and a storeroom in the midst of town was plugged through and through with a musket ball one day last week.

In Anoka Minn recently, a six year old girl was overheard telling her play mate that she had attended a church sociable the evening before and that a little boy kissed her while they were engaged in a play, but she said: That's no harm, cause it was our preacher's boy, you know.

As Charles Lamb was returning to London in a stage coach after dinner, a person thrust his head in at the coach door and asked: Are you full inside? Lamb pretending to take the query to himself, replied: I am for one, that last slice of plumb pudding did my business.

A boy at a crossing having begged for something of a gentleman, the latter told him he would give him something as he came back. The boy replied: Your honor would be surprised if you knew the money I lose by giving credit that way.

Fulton Testifies in Spalding's Case.

SAN FRANCISCO May 4—The defense opened in the Spalding court martial to-day. Pay Inspector Jas Fulton testified that he is at present stationed at Mare Island navy yard previously held the office of disbursing and purchasing paymaster at Philadelphia. The term of office of Spalding, as pay inspector at San Francisco expired June 10th 1874. He was in Washington about May 1 1874 and made application while there to be appointed to succeed him in his position here. He applied to Acting Paymaster General Whitmound. He said paymaster Ambrose J Clark was in the city, that he was going to try and have Spalding removed and that Clark was going to call on Senator Sargent that evening and that I could go and have a talk about it. I did so. Sargent Clark and I had a conversation. Clark said to Sargent that he wished to come out to San Francisco to relieve Spalding. Sargent said it made no difference who relieved Spalding but he wanted Pinney to remain as chief clerk, that Pinney was a good man and made a good speech.

Question by the court—Did Senator Sargent say that retaining Pinney would be required of any one who relieved Spalding? A—No he did not.

Q—Was the condition of retaining Pinney as chief clerk the reason of your not succeeding Spalding? A—Yes sir.

The testimony of Pay Inspector Fulton is believed to foreshadow Spalding's line of defense. It will be remembered that when the court of inquiry to investigate the frauds in the pay inspector's office was convened, and it was proposed to place Spalding on the stand he stated that he did not wish to say anything, but if pushed to the wall he would make disclosures affecting high officials in the conduct of Federal affairs on this coast. An impression prevails that Spalding will attempt to prove that Pinney was posted on the department for political consideration and that those who were concerned in retaining him in the place are more or less responsible for subsequent occurrences. In this connection it may be stated that the opinion is quite prevalent in army and navy circles that Spalding is not altogether compos mentis and scarcely a proper man on that account to be entrusted with so responsible a position as that of pay-inspector.

S. F. Chronicle on Fulton's Testimony in the Courtmartial Case.

SAN FRANCISCO May 5—The Chronicle of this morning referring to the testimony of Pay Inspector Fulton before the Spalding courtmartial, says: In these days of fearful scandals and marvelous developments of all sorts of official badness, we have chanced to meet with no more damaging testimony than this against all public officials. The questions naturally occur who runs the U S Navy Department? what has a Senator to do with the assignment of officers to duty and what business has he to interfere with naval officers in discharge of their official duties and in the employment of clerks and assistants? It is clear that our whole public service is debauched and demoralized. This man Pinney was a thief and a swindler, yet he was placed in a responsible position by Senator Sargent and retained in that position by the same powerful influence until he had bagged all the spoils he cared for, or had stolen all he thought he could get away with, and then fled. Pinney's superior, Pay Inspector Spalding, did not feel responsible for his acts, and in fact was most likely afraid to interfere with his operations, if he knew of them, lest by so doing he should offend Senator Sargent and be suddenly ordered away to some less desirable post of duty. Evidently this naval officer feared Sargent more than the laws of the United States and the regulations of the Navy Department or orders of his proper superiors and it was but natural under the circumstances that he should thus fear Sargent, for as the testimony adduced yesterday and quoted above shows, Sargent was a power behind the department greater than the department itself.

The Bulletin this evening publishes an article from the Chicago Field of April 29th relative to the forthcoming walking match between O Leary and Schmehl in which it in effect says Schmehl is a fraud and never made the time credited to him in his recent walk in Chicago. The match between him and O Leary must be a humbug.

Suicide.

A man named Flemming aged about 63 years cut his throat at an early hour this morning, on the sands near Point San Jose barracks. He has been a resident of this city a great many years. He was taken to the military station for treatment. The army surgeon at the Presidio, says he will die. What prompted the old man to do the act has not been ascertained.

SAN FRANCISCO May 5—Dispatches have been received here from Washington displacing Foster the American consul at Samoa, and appointing in his place Jas M Cave who arrived here to-day by the steamer Zealandia from Fiji having been taken there from Samoa a prisoner on the British war vessel Barracouta. News from Samoa

SAN FRANCISCO May 5—The Zealandia, the first of the British steamers to run on the mail line to Australia, arrived to-day, having among her passengers A W Coe the former American commercial agent at Samoa, and Steinberger's brother. They state that after the dethronement of Malieto by the natives on account of deposing Steinberger as premier, Capt Stevens commanding the British steamer Barracouta, landed with a force of marines and went to the council house when the legislature was assembled with intent to enthrone Malietoa. The chiefs ordered the native guard to take position in the vicinity of the council house. Stevens ordered his marines to disarm the natives. The guard resisted, and a fight ensued, in which four marines were killed and eight mortally wounded. Three natives were killed and five slightly wounded. The natives were in sufficient force to have exterminated the marines had they wished, but were restrained by the chiefs, who told Stevens they had no desire to fight but would defend their rights. Stevens took his wounded on board the Barracouta, landed with artillery, threw up breast works and kept guard behind them fourteen days but no further demonstrations were made by the natives. They then returned to the Barracouta, taking three chiefs as hostages. In the meantime the British steamer Sapphire arrived and the chiefs were transferred to her and the Barracouta sailed for the Fiji Islands taking Steinberger, his brother and Coe, who was carried away simply for his loyalty to the native government. The prisoners landed at Fiji, and the Barracouta ordered to Auckland, presumably for the purpose of having the acts of her captain investigated. Steinberger went also to confront him and demand satisfaction for the outrage perpetrated on him. At the time of leaving Samoa, the Tuscarora would be due in ten days. Foster, the American consul, acted throughout the trouble in harmony with the British. Coe and Steinberger also reiterate the statement that the main trouble arises from the machination of the English missionaries, whose profits were impaired by the regulations introduced by Steinberger, also by the opposition of Beach, Combers, Sydney Ducks & Co who disliked his interference with their liquor selling and other pursuits.

Brilliant Reception and Celebration.

STOCKTON May 5—One of the most brilliant events of the season was the arrival of the National Guards from San Francisco last evening. There were probably not less than 1 000 people at the depot, all anxious to see the guests. The Stockton Guards met them at the depot and escorted them through the principal streets amidst the firing of sky rockets bombs, etc lighting the streets for a distance of two or three blocks. Two large bonfires built on Main street also helped the illumination. After marching and countermarching through the business portion of the city they marched to Mozart hall and stacked arms there.

Three cheers were given for the Nationals who responded with a vim. They then adjourned to the Yosemite house. This morning both companies paraded through the principal streets, and at half-past 9 took a line of march for Goodwater grove, where dancing and target shooting were the principal [illegible] the day. Owing to a heavy [illegible] scoring was not as good as might [illegible] but the San Francisco company [illegible] ahead. It will be continued to-morrow morning. Brigadier General Canavan and staff were present on the grounds at 1.30 P M. The Knights of Pythias, headed by the Stockton brass band, of twenty pieces marched out to the outskirts of the town and escorted the two companies of guards through the principal street to Mozart Hall. A grand ball is now in progress, largely attended by the elite of the city. To-morrow evening a banquet will be given by the Stockton Guards in honor of the guests. Great credit is due Capt. L E. Lyon and officers, for the very creditable manner in which the programme is being carried out.

NEVADA.

Important Case Decided.

PIOCHE, May 5—The Record this evening contains the following: The board of county commissioners at Lincoln, yesterday, received the following dispatch: Carson, May 5—To the Board of County Commissioners, Pioche. The order appealed from in the case of the Odd Fellows Savings and Commercial Bank vs. Miles Quillen has been affirmed (Signed.) Chas P Bicknell Clerk Supreme Court.

This affirms the decision of Judge Rives of the District Court. The interest money will now have to be paid over by the county treasurer to the bondholders.

Murderer Turned Loose.

William Donnelly, who murdered Sullivan, was last night let loose from jail, there being no provision made for sustenance, neither by his friends, enemies or the authorities. This is a horrible state of affairs but the bond holders must have their interest money, if they suck the life's blood from Lincoln county.

Rover, the Murderer, Sentenced.

WINNEMUCCA, May 5—Rover, the murderer of Sharp, has at last received his sentence. When asked by the court could he give a reason why the sentence of death should not be passed upon him the prisoner arose and producing several documents, read to the court eight different points, in which, he alleged, unjust and illegal testimony had been admitted into court, and also that the jury were biased and prejudiced from reading journals containing comments upon his case, which papers were distributed broadcast throughout the country. Rover closed his remarks by quoting pieces of poetry. Judge Bonnifide replied to the prisoner in a solemn and impressive manner that 12 jurymen thoroughly and searchingly examined and found to be unprejudiced and unbiased had found him guilty of murder in the first degree beyond a reasonable doubt. The court then passed sentence to the effect that J W Rover be hanged on the 16th of June next. Rover, rising, exclaimed: Judge, your sentence I cannot help but you will yet know the truth of this matter. An impression prevails that Rover is touched with insanity or otherwise a hardened and confirmed villain.

HOW GOVERNOR GROVER DEALS WITH FACTS.

Those public speakers who possess the boldness to draw upon their imaginations for their facts, and trust to the ignorance of the audience to avoid detection, would have an easy time of it if they did not sometimes mistake the extent to which [illegible] illusion can be pushed with safety. For example, Gov. Grover's assertions in his speech last evening with respect to the connection between the fluctuations of the price of currency, sounded very encouraging to the Democratic ear and made it appear to those who were ignorant of the facts, that in that matter alone the Bourbons have an argument which will completely overwhelm those who accuse the Democracy of a want of capacity to deal with the currency question. He asserted that immediately after the passage of the resumption act of January, 1875, the price of greenbacks began to fall, and that when the Democrats this winter made their grand financial achievement of scaling down the salaries of clerks and other employes, saving the government some millions of dollars, greenbacks advanced till they were now worth 90 cents. There is just enough of truth at the foundation of the Governor's Democratic fiction to prevent its being an exception to the general rule that there is a truth at the bottom of every falsehood; though, as in most cases, so in this, the truth is so distorted and colored by the falsehood as to make it in effect an untruth. It is true that after the passage of the resumption act by Congress gold advanced—or greenbacks depreciated; but that is only a part of the truth. The rest, which the Governor was careful to suppress, is, that for several months before the passage of that act gold was steadily advancing, and that after the passage of the act it advanced no faster than before. The resumption act was passed in January, 1875. Six months prior to that date—that is, in July, 1874—gold in New York was fluctuating but little, the variation being between 109¼ to 110¼. So it stood through September and October. In November it gradually advanced to 112. At this point it stood—fluctuating between 111¼ and 112¼ through December. In January the highest point reached was 113 and the lowest 112. In February it advanced from 112—the price at the end of January—to 114. In March it reached 115⅝. In April there was a decline of one cent, and then again an advance to 115¼, where the quotation stood at the close of that month. In May there was a further advance, till at the end of the month the price was 116. In June the variation was between 116¼ and 117¼—the highest point reached during the year. This disposes of the first part of the Governor's statement, because it shows that the upward tendency of gold began six months before the passage of the resumption act instead of immediately afterwards, and that it continued to advance at the same rate for six months after the passage of this act, at which time it ceased to advance, notwithstanding the act.

And now for the other part of the Governor's statement. He says gold went down when the Democrats began their saving of candle ends and cheese parings. The fact is the decline commenced before the meeting of Congress, and even before the fall elections had shown that there was to be a Democratic House of Representatives. As we said gold had reached 117¼ by the end of June, 1875. In July it declined to 116¼. During August it fluctuated between that figure and 115¼. Through September and the first half of October it remained at about the same point. At the end of October it had fallen to 115¼. Through November the tendency was steadily downward, the quotation at the close of the month being 114¼. In December it came down to 113 which was the price at the close of the year. From this time to the close of February—two months of the present year, it got below 113 but once—Jan. 5, when it was 112¾—and never was higher than 114, which figure was reached but once, to-wit, on the last day of February. Through March and April it varied but little, the highest quotation being, on March 4, when it stood at 114¼. By April 4 it had fallen only to 113 and there it has stood, with only a fraction of a cent's variation down to this time. So the last part of the Governor's comparative statement is as faulty in the matter of truthfulness as the first. This great Democratic retrenchment of clerk hire has had no more to do with the fluctuations of the currency that with the motions of the solar system.

As this speech of Governor Grover's is understood to be the opening performance of the campaign, we deem it unnecessary to apologize to our readers for inflicting upon them so much dry and uninviting statistical matter. Figures do not lie, and the Governor's pettifogging on the currency question may as well be exposed at the outset. It is in order also to remark that the disingenuousness displayed in this matter by the Governor subjects whatever else he may say to suspicion of being specious fiction instead of candid facts.

GRANT AND THE CONGRESSIONAL DOUGHFACES.

If President Grant intended to refuse the information for which the House of Representatives called respecting his peregrinations and loiterings at the sea shore, he might have done so with dignity and decorum befitting the position he occupies and the character of the body making the request. There is, perhaps, no person who does not know that the demand was made upon him for a purely partisan purpose, and had he simply declined to furnish the information, placing his refusal on the ground of constitutional prerogative, it is doubtful if those who admire him least would have felt disposed to criticise his conduct. But to descend into an ill-natured bandying of words with the lot of politicians who set themselves after him, was to belittle himself and his office; and then to parade a bill of particulars against his predecessors in office, set in a paragraph of Pecksniffian drivel about his own devotion to the constitution and laws and his faithfulness as a public servant, was an unbearable piece of impertinence. The National House of Representatives has already shown itself to be merely a convention of small detectives and unstarred policemen, instead of a dignified deliberative body, and among the smallest of its littlenesses was this attempt to make party capital by means of a public investigation of a matter which, if rebuke is deserved—and we cannot but think is—can be appropriately rebuked in no way except through the general expression of public sentiment. Why does not the House of Representatives institute an inquiry into the number of cigars the President smokes, the sort of wine he drinks and the quality of his small clothes? and then why should not the President go into a half suppliant, half defiant wrangle with his inquisitors, involving an analysis of the personal habits of all his predecessors in office, instead of telling them in a dignified way, but with no unnecessary words, that it was none of their business? This whole affair has been conducted in a manner to impress one with the infinitessimal littleness of what sometimes passes for greatness.

Some time since a telegram was sent to Joaquin Miller by the committee of arrangements, requesting a poem for Oregon's Centennial celebration. His answer has arrived by mail, promising a poem from him on that occasion. This will be a feature of the festivities, and will add much to the interest of the occasion. The committee are making every necessary preparation for a week of rejoicing, glorification, amusement and jollity suitable to the hundredth anniversary of the birthday of the Republic.

On the afternoon of Tuesday last a son of Joseph McCune, a child about eight years old, living in Linn county, about two miles from Corvallis, while playing on smooth ground, fell and broke the thigh bone of his left leg.

A Lane county letter says: "The rain continues, and the prospects of a harvest are anything but promising to the husbandman. A large amount of farm land in Lane county is yet unbroken, and a still larger amount unsown."

Notice is given that the members of the Yamhill County Pioneer Wolf Club will meet at the courthouse at Lafayette on Saturday, May 27th, at 10 A. M., for the purpose of transacting such business as may properly come before them—electing officers, etc.

A special meeting of the Order of P. of H. is called to meet at the Grange Hall, in the city of Salem, on Saturday, the 13th day of May, 1876, at the hour of 10 o'clock, A. M. for the purpose of transacting important business connected with the sale of wool and grain the ensuing year.

In the circuit court for Josephine county, last week, Joseph Newcomb pleaded guilty to the indictment charging him with an attempt to commit a rape. He said he was drunk and did not know what he might have done. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years, the lowest term allowed by law.

The following are the nominations for the Democratic ticket in Curry county: Joint representative, E. J. Gould; county judge, G. W. Zumwalt; county clerk, John Wilkinson; commissioners, A. J. A GOOD WASHING MACHINE.

THE

COMPLETE WASHER.

WITH GREAT SATISFACTION WE TESTIFY to the wonderful qualities of the "COMPLETE WASHER" Machine, which is in use by many of the best families in our city, because it makes the wash day one of pleasure, and causes no wear on clothing or tire to operator. It is by excessive and exhaustive labor by the women of our land, who are toiling all day long on an ordinary family washing in the hot-suds, wearing away their knuckle bones and very lives every week in the year, and going out from the seething tub to the cold air, which causes our mothers, sisters and loved ones to take cold so easily, causing pains in the back and limbs, rheumatism, pleurisy, chills and fever, etc., sometimes resulting in death. Ladies rescue yourselves from this thraldom and purchase a "Complete Washer," the Pet Washer of our land, which economizes time and does away with this excessive labor; for you know that for one to handle by hand large articles, such as quilts, etc., that it is exceedingly difficult by the old mode. We advise and entreat everybody, therefore, to have one of these Machines. They are within the reach of every family.

Best of Wringers and Clothes Lines always on hand.

Of the great number who have this Machine in Oregon and on the Pacific slope, not one would part with it. Hundreds and thousands of such testimonials could be gotten.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1876.

HOW GOVERNOR GROVER DEALS WITH FACTS.

Those public speakers who possess the boldness to draw upon their imaginations for their facts, and trust to the ignorance of the audience to avoid detection, would have an easy time of it if they did not sometimes mistake the extent to which [illegible] can be pushed with safety. For example, Gov. Grover's assertions in his speech last evening with respect to the connection between the fluctuations of the price of currency, sounded very encouraging to the Democratic ear and made it appear to those who were ignorant of the facts, that in that matter alone the Bourbons have an argument which will completely overwhelm those who accuse the Democracy of a want of capacity to deal with the currency question. He asserted that immediately after the passage of the resumption act of January, 1875, the price of greenbacks began to fall, and that when the Democrats this winter made their grand financial achievement of scaling down the salaries of clerks and other employes, saving the government some millions of dollars, greenbacks advanced till they were now worth 90 cents. There is just enough of truth at the foundation of the Governor's Democratic fiction to prevent its being an exception to the general rule that there is a truth at the bottom of every falsehood; though, as in most cases, so in this, the truth is so distorted and colored by the falsehood as to make it in effect an untruth. It is true that after the passage of the resumption act by Congress gold advanced — or greenbacks depreciated; but that is only a part of the truth. The rest, which the Governor was careful to suppress, is, that for several months before the passage of that act gold was steadily advancing, and that after the passage of the act it advanced no faster than before. The resumption act was passed in January, 1875. Six months prior to that date—that is, in July, 1874—gold in New York was fluctuating but little, the variation being between 109½ to 110½. So it stood through September and October. In November it gradually advanced to 112. At this point it stood—fluctuating between 111½ and 112½ through December. In January the highest point reached was 113 and the lowest 112¼. In February it advanced from 113—the price at the end of January—to 114. In March it reached 115¼. In April there was a decline of one cent, and then again an advance to 115¼, where the quotation stood at the close of that month. In May there was a further advance, till at the end of the month the price was 116. In June the variation was between 116¼ and 117¼—the highest point reached during the year. This disposes of the first part of the Governor's statement, because it shows that the upward tendency of gold began six months before the passage of the resumption act instead of immediately afterwards, and that it continued to advance at the same rate for six months after the passage of this act, at which time it ceased to advance, notwithstanding the act.

And now for the other part of the Governor's statement. He says gold went down when the Democrats began their saving of candle ends and cheese parings. The fact is the decline commenced before the meeting of Congress, and even before the fall elections had shown that there was to be a Democratic House of Representatives. As we said gold had reached 117¼ by the end of June, 1875. In July it declined to 116½. During August it fluctuated between that figure and 115½. Through September and the first half of October it remained at about the same point. At the end of October it had fallen to 115¼. Through November the tendency was steadily downward, the quotation at the close of the month being 114¼. In December it came down to 113, which was the price at the close of the year. From this time to the close of February—two months of the present year, it got below 113 but once—Jan. 5, when it was 112¾—and never was higher than 114, which figure was reached but once, to-wit, on the last day of February. Through March and April it varied but little, the highest quotation being, on March 3, when it stood at 114¼. By April 4 it had fallen only to 113, and there it has stood, with only a fraction of a cent's variation down to this time. So the last part of the Governor's comparative statement is as faulty in the matter of truthfulness as the first. This great Democratic retrenchment of clerk hire has had no more to do with the fluctuations of the currency that with the motions of the solar system.

As this speech of Governor Grover's is understood to be the opening performance of the campaign, we deem it unnecessary to apologize to our readers for inflicting upon them so much dry and uninviting statistical matter. Figures do not lie, and the Governor's pettifogging on the currency question may as well be exposed at the outset. It is in order also to remark that the disingenuousness displayed in this matter by the Governor subjects whatever else he may say to suspicion of being specious fiction instead of candid facts.

GRANT AND THE CONGRESSIONAL DOUGHFACES.

If President Grant intended to refuse the information for which the House of Representatives called respecting his peregrinations and loiterings at the sea shore, he might have done so with dignity and decorum befitting the position he occupies and the character of the body making the request. There is, perhaps, no person who does not know that the demand was made upon him for a purely partisan purpose, and had he simply declined to furnish the information, placing his refusal on the ground of constitutional prerogative, it is doubtful if those who admire him [illegible] would have felt disposed to criticise his conduct. But to descend into an ill-natured bandying of words with the lot of politicians who set themselves after him, was to belittle himself and his office; and then to parade a bill of particulars against his predecessors in office, set in a paragraph of Peckenniffian drivel about his own devotion to the constitution and laws and his faithfulness as a public servant, was an unbearable piece of impertinence. The National House of Representatives has already shown itself to be merely a convention of small detectives and unstarred policemen, instead of a dignified deliberative body, and among the smallest of its littlenesses was this attempt to make party capital by means of a public investigation of a matter which, if rebuke is deserved—and we cannot but think is—can be appropriately rebuked in no way except through the general expression of public sentiment. Why does not the House of Representatives institute an inquiry into the number of cigars the President smokes, the sort of wine he drinks and the quality of his small clothes? and then why should not the President go into a half suppliant, half defiant wrangle with his inquisitors, involving an analysis of the personal habits of all his predecessors in office, instead of telling them in a dignified way, but with no unnecessary words, that it was none of their business? This whole affair has been conducted in a manner to impress one with the infinitessimal littleness of what sometimes passes for greatness.

Some time since a telegram was sent to Joaquin Miller by the committee of arrangements, requesting a poem for Oregon's Centennial celebration. His answer has arrived by mail, promising a poem from him on that occasion. This will be a feature of the festivities, and will add much to the interest of the occasion. The committee are making every necessary preparation for a week of rejoicing, glorification, amusement and jollity suitable to the hundredth anniversary of the birthday of the Republic.

NO MORE BALDNESS.

MRS. S. LORD,
Agent for Mrs. Moore's Great
Scientific Hair Reproducer,

WOULD INFORM THE PUBLIC THAT SHE has opened parlors for the treatment of Ladies and Gentlemen for the cure of Baldness in all its stages, and a few treatments will convince the most skeptical that this is no exaggeration. Weak, decaying and falling hair made strong, healthy and vigorous. Hair guaranteed in all cases where directions are faithfully followed. No mineral or damaging substances used or disagreeable methods. The treatment is pleasant and soothing, bringing the scalp rapidly into a natural, healthful tone, and furnishing the proper elements to the bulbs and hair, which is produced in a surprisingly short space of time.

Ladies and gentlemen desiring treatment please call at her Parlors and the most satisfactory proofs will be furnished. Photographs of prominent men taken before and after treatment, can be seen at her rooms. Visitors always welcome. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington.

Room 16, First National Bank Building.

This is to certify that I can vouch for the efficacy attributed to Mrs. Moore's Hair Restorative.

CORBY'S "MERRY-MAKERS."—A good audience [illegible] at New Market Theater, to witness the second appearance of Sherry Corbyn's "Merry-Makers." Substantially the same programme of Thursday evening was repeated. The objectionable features alluded to in our last issue, were carefully avoided by the members composing the troupe, and in no particular did the performers fail to afford the fullest measure of satisfaction. Mr. Corbyn, the veteran manager, fired by a laudable ambition to please, is determined to omit everything in connection with the entertainment which can give offense to the most refined and fastidious, and with this motto, he cannot fail to succeed. Last evening the celebrated Worrell sisters appeared to excellent advantage, and their songs, dancing and sketch acting pleased immensely, judging from the hearty applause they won. It is needless to mention the songs and Dutchisms of Geo. Knight. He never fails to make a "palpable hit" whenever he appears. To hear him in his famous speech affords enough fun alone to pay for the price of admission. Geo. Richards, the "India rubber man," who is as elastic and lithe as a steel spring, contributed in no small measure to the enjoyment of the entertainment by his clownish antics. In his specialty of "Flewy, Flewy," he is certainly inimitable. Louis Bodecker is in charge of the orchestra, and under his experienced and skillful direction, the music is excellent. This afternoon a matinee performance will be given for the express accommodation of the ladies and little people. The company will appear again this evening in a number of new and attractive specialties, when a jammed house may be anticipated.

BASE BALL NOTES.

A correspondent, writing from Vancouver, says: "A game of base ball played last Saturday afternoon on the garrison parade ground, between the soldiers' club (Columbia) and the citizens' club (Spartans) of Vancouver, had been omitted from the Vancouver items. Although the afternoon was stormy and disagreeable, the game was stubbornly contested by both clubs; the ninth inning being a tie, a tenth inning had to be played, which resulted in a victory for the Columbia. The score stood: Columbia, 49 runs; Spartans, 39 runs.

A Salem exchange says: "The College have again taken up the willow to put themselves in trim for the coming "centennial games," and judging from the rattling games played Wednesday evening upon their grounds, between nines captained by Messrs. Belt and Clarke, they bid fair to sustain their reputation and hold the championship for 1876. The score last evening stood 15 to 20 in favor of Capt. Clarke's nine. The first and second nines will play Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a close game may be looked for, as the nines are well matched. The following are the nines: Geo. W. Belt, James Coleman, A. N. Moores, Frank McCully, Wm. Beckett, H. Aiken, Bliss D. Rickey, G. A. Peebles and Robert Miller.—Second nine—Ed. G. Clarke, Geo. W. Gray, Thomas Cornell, Chas. Ford, John Riggs, A. B. Crossman, Jas. Riggs, Chas. Belt and Geo. Hill."

"[illegible] ME, MARY, HOW TO WOO THEE?"

Tell me, Mary, how to woo thee?
Shall I never call thee mine?
Is it vain for me to sue thee,
Can I melt that heart of thine?
I have riches, and will give thee
Everything thy heart can crave;
Say, dear Mary, you will save me
From a cold and cruel grave?

Gracious sakes, don't talk of dying—
(Sure you love me more than life?)
If you're certain you're not lying,
Perhaps I may become your wife.
But being wealthy and good looking,
That don't count with me at all;
I'll have you if you buy your smoking
At the famous "ABBEY" hall.

Everything must give way to our elegant Cigars. They are perfectly irresistible, and win all hearts by their fine flavor.

Boarders are beginning to look longingly toward rural habitations for the benefit of a change of air and mosquitoes during the summer. Gentlemen go to Fishel & Roberts for fine clothing.

Pleasant weather to-day will induce many to invest small change for lunch at Barnes'.

All that would avail themselves of the privilege of seeing the wonderful "double calf," must visit the museum to-day, as Mr. Wilson will show at Salem May 9th, Albany, May 10th, and stopping only at principal places, make all haste overland to Redding, thence to Philadelphia.

For twenty-five years I was among the boldest of the bald, having only a fringe of thin hair around the base of the head. After eight months' treatment by Mrs. H. A. Moore, to my infinite satisfaction I have a head of strong, thick hair, and of its original color.

When you wish to present a respectable appearance dress well. All the young and old men in the town consider that the late importations at Jos. Kohn's are the best they have seen. Kohn is always "up to snuff," and provides his patrons with the latest and best. Examine the stock.

We would call the attention of the Street Commissioner to the manner in which B. Fleckenstein, 147 First street, blocks up the sidewalk with shipments of Noble Whisky.

Tried and found eminently correct, the meals as served at the Occidental Restaurant daily by McCafferty & Whittle. This firm have recently taken charge, though they are "old timers" in the business and have many friends.

W. L. Adams, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. A lady always in the office to assist in treating women.

A committee was appointed at the last meeting of W[illegible] who are to get up a new design for a Company certificate.

Columbian engine was pumping out cisterns yesterday. Central school boys manned the rope on Morrison street much to their amusement.

The new steam fire engine for Linn Engine Co. No. 2, at Albany, arrived on the Oriflamme, and was shipped to its destination. Mr. Wm. Everson, engineer of Willamette No. 1, has gone up to put things in shape.

Nicholas Schuyler, for years an active member of Multnomah Co. No. 2, and an old exempt, took passage on the outgoing steamer. "Nick" proposes to see all the grand sights at the Centennial before his return to the misty land of Webfoot.

In view of the fact that a great many firemen will visit, by invitation, this city during Centennial week, application was made to the council, by the members of No. 1, for the use of the unoccupied portion of the corporation shed on Fourth street. A resolution was adopted at the last meeting of the council granting the request. A number of cots, blankets, bedding, etc., will be provided and placed in the building for the accommodation of firemen guests.

Chief Engineer Lyon has handed us the following extract from the Indianapolis Journal of Sept. 24, 1875, which will be perused with interest by our firemen. Under the head of "The Exhibition Squirt," the paper says:

"The exhibition given by the city fire department yesterday afternoon, in honor of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., poorly managed as it was, was very creditable in some respects. An immense concourse of people assembled upon the Circle to witness the display. The engines and hose companies were in trim and did their prettiest. The water-works, too, never worked better. The following is a record of the time scored by the various engines:

Steamer No. 1 Silsby build, left the house with the indicator showing thirteen pounds of steam, ran seven squares and threw water from the nozzle in three minutes and fifty-three seconds.

Steamer, Latta build, No. 2, left the house cold, ran six squares, and threw water from the nozzle in five minutes and forty seconds.

Steamer No. 3, Amoskeag, left the house cold, ran six squares and one-half, threw water from the nozzle in five minutes and twenty seconds.

Steamer No. 4, left the house with the indicator showing thirteen pounds of steam, ran seven squares, and threw water from the nozzle in four minutes.

Steamer No. 5, Ahren's build, left the house cold, ran sixteen squares, threw water from the nozzle in six minutes and fifty seconds.

Steamer No. 6, Ahren's build, left the house cold, ran six squares, and threw water from the nozzle in three minutes and 58 seconds.

Steamer No. 7, Dean-Silsby build, left the house with the indicator showing forty-five pounds of steam, ran three squares, and threw water from the nozzle in two minutes and fifty seconds.

CARD FROM SHERRY CORBYN.

CITY EDITOR OREGONIAN:

In conformity with a wish expressed in your criticism of the "Merry Makers," as performed at the New Market theater last evening, the points alluded to (though performed successfully at the Fifth Avenue theater, New York, and all the principal theaters in the Atlantic States and San Francisco) have been expunged. It has always been my determination that nothing offensive to the taste of my patrons should occur in any entertainment given under my management. With thanks for your kindness in pointing out where we are in error, I am yours, very respectfully,

SHERIDAN CORBYN.

NOTICE.

Any business of mine, will be attended to by my son "Chas. F. Wightman," who will supply the "Wightman Process" to those suffering from Hemorrhoid or Piles, and diseases of the Rectum; his experience in the "Field Hospitals" of the "Fifteenth Army Corps," Gen. Sherman, during the whole of the late war, was probably greater than Surgeons have in a life time, out of the service. He will, no doubt, give every satisfaction to those needing his services as "Assistant Surgeon" or otherwise. Thanking the citizens of Portland, and elsewhere in the State, Idaho and Washington Territory, for their confidence and liberality, I hope our short acquaintance has been of great advantage to all. My address until further notice will be "San Francisco, Cal." In Portland, "Chas F. Wightman N. E. cor. Stark and Fourth street, P. O. box 217."

The Willamette University closes the last week in May this year, and already are the graduating class, the Alumni and the various literary societies rehearsing and preparing for the annual exercises of commencement week.

The Alkas and Hesperians of the university met this evening in joint debate to discuss the question whether or not the Granger order is detrimental to the best interests of the country at large. Both sides are confident of success.

George Conner, the third and last remaining of the youthful culprits sent to the penitentiary from your county last fall, was pardoned by the Governor yesterday, and legally bound to David Swartz, of this county, where he will undoubtedly receive good treatment until he is of age, at which time he is to receive one hundred and sixty acres of land as part payment for services rendered meantime.

The ladies of the Episcopal Church gave another of their pleasant sociables at the residence of Gen. Jno. F. Miller last evening. Their elegant house on State street was filled with participants young and old who with one accord united in making the occasion a joyous one. Mrs. Miller assisted by her daughters were very successful in entertaining their guests and making them feel at home. The receipts were liberal.

The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure, the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks hollow, and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood, stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength-creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows, in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye regains its brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

CORBYN'S "MERRY-MAKERS."—A good audience [illegible] at New Market Theater, to witness the second appearance of Sherry Corbyn's "Merry-Makers." Substantially the same programme of Thursday evening was repeated. The objectionable features alluded to in our last issue, were carefully avoided by the members composing the troupe, and in no particular did the performance fail to afford the fullest measure of satisfaction. Mr. Corbyn, the veteran manager, fired by a laudable ambition to please, is determined to omit everything in connection with the entertainment which can give offense to the most refined and fastidious, and with this motto, he cannot fail to succeed. Last evening the celebrated Worrell sisters appeared to excellent advantage, and their songs, dancing and sketch acting pleased immensely, judging from the hearty applause they won. It is needless to mention the songs and Dutchisms of Geo Knight. He never fails to make a "palpable hit" whenever he appears. To hear him in his famous speech affords enough fun alone to pay for the price of admission. Geo. Richards, the "India rubber man," who is as elastic and lithe as a steel spring, contributed in no small measure to the enjoyment of the entertainment by his clownish antics. In his specialty of "Flewy, Flewy," he is certainly inimitable. Louis Bodecker is in charge of the orchestra, and under his experienced and skillful direction, the music is excellent. This afternoon a matinee performance will be given for the express accommodation of the ladies and little people. The company will appear again this evening in a number of new and attractive specialties, when a jammed house may be anticipated.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Religious services will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Sabbath morning, at 11 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Bentely officiating.

Lay service will be held at the Unitarian Chapel to-morrow morning. Sunday school at 12½ o'clock. Evening service will be omitted.

Praise meeting will be held at Plymouth Sabbath school, corner of Fourteenth and K streets to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All friends of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Rt. Rev. B. Wistar Morris, Bishop of the Diocese, will officiate at St. David's Church, East Portland, Sunday evening, May 7, 1876, at 7½ o'clock, when the rite of confirmation will be administered.

Preaching at the Baptist church, corner of Fourth and Alder streets, at 11 A. M. and 7½ P. M. The sacrament of Communion celebrated at close of morning service. In the evening the pastor will lecture on The relation of Christian Academies and Colleges to American liberty.

Services at the Congregational church, corner of Second and Jefferson streets, at 11 o'clock in the morning as usual. In the evening a prayer meeting, conducted by laymen, will be held at a quarter before eight in the main audience room as heretofore

Divine service will be held in Stephen's Chapel, corner of Madison and Fourth streets, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, when the Bishop will officiate, and at 3½ there will be full choral service. At St Matthews Chapel at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Rosenburg, officiating.

BASE BALL NOTES.

A correspondent, writing from Vancouver, says "A game of base ball played last Saturday afternoon on the garrison parade ground, between the soldiers' club (Columbia) and the citizens' club (Spartans) of Vancouver, had been omitted from the Vancouver items. Although the afternoon was stormy and disagreeable, the game was stubbornly contested by both clubs, the ninth inning being a tie, a tenth inning had to be played, which resulted in a victory for the Columbia. The score stood. Columbia, 49 runs, Spartans, 30 runs.

A Salem exchange says "The College have again taken up the willow to put themselves in trim for the coming "centennial games," and judging from the rattling games played Wednesday evening upon their grounds, between nines captained by Messrs. Belt and Clarke, they bid fair to sustain their reputation and hold the championship for 1876. The score last evening stood 15 to 20 in favor of Capt. Clarke's nine. The first and second nines will play Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a close game may be looked for, as the nines are well matched. The following are the nines: Geo. W. Belt, James Coleman, A. N. Moores, Frank McCully, Wm. Berkett, H. Aiken, Bliss D. Rickey, G. A. Peebles and Robert Miller,—Second nine—Ed. G. Clarke, Geo. W. Gray, Thomas Cornell, Chas. Ford, John Riggs, A. B. Crossman, Jas. Riggs, Chas. Belt and Geo. Hill."

Columbian engine was pumping out cisterns yesterday. Central school boys manned the rope on Morrison street much to their amusement.

The new steam fire engine for Linn Engine Co No 2, at Albany, arrived on the Oriflamme, and was shipped to its destination. Mr Wm. Everson, engineer of Willamette No 1, has gone up to put things in shape

Nicholas Schuyler, for years an active member of Multnomah Co. No. 2, and an old exempt, took passage on the outgoing steamer "Nick" proposes to see all the grand sights at the Centennial before his return to the musty land of Webfoot

In view of the fact that a great many firemen will visit, by invitation, this city during Centennial week, application was made to the council, by the members of No. 1, for the use of the unoccupied portion of the corporation shed on Fourth street. A resolution was adopted at the last meeting of the council granting the request. A number of cots, blankets, bedding, etc., will be provided and placed in the building for the accommodation of firemen guests.

Chief Engineer Lyon has handed us the following extract from the Indianapolis Journal of Sept. 24, 1875, which will be perused with interest by our firemen. Under the head of "The Exhibition Squirt," the paper says

The exhibition given by the city fire department yesterday afternoon, in honor of the Grand Lodge I O. O. F., poorly managed as it was, was very creditable in some respects. An immense concourse of people assembled upon the Circle to witness the display. The engines and hose companies were in trim and did their prettiest. The water-works, too, never worked better. The following is a record of the time scored by the various engines.

Steamer No 1 Silsby build, left the house with the indicator showing thirteen pounds of steam, ran seven squares and threw water from the nozzle in three minutes and fifty-three seconds

Steamer, Latta build, No 2, left the house cold, ran six squares, and threw water from the nozzle in five minutes and forty seconds

Steamer No. 3, Amoskeag, left the house cold, ran six squares and one-half, threw water from the nozzle in five minutes and twenty seconds.

Steamer No. 4, left the house with the indicator showing thirteen pounds of steam, ran seven squares, and threw water from the nozzle in four minutes.

Steamer No 5, Ahren's build, left the house cold, ran sixteen squares, threw water from the nozzle in six minutes and fifty seconds

Steamer No. 6, Ahren's build, left the house cold, ran six squares, and threw water from the nozzle in three minutes and 58 seconds

CARD FROM SHERRY CORBYN.

CITY EDITOR OREGONIAN

In conformity with a wish expressed in your criticism of the "Merry Makers," as performed at the New Market theater last evening the points alluded to (though performed successfully at the Fifth Avenue theater New York, and all the principal theaters in the Atlantic States and San Francisco) have been expunged. It has always been my determination that nothing offensive to the taste of my patrons should occur in any entertainment given under my management. With thanks for your kindness in pointing out where we are in error, I am yours, very respectfully,

SHERIDAN CORBYN.

Any business of mine, will be attended to by my son "Chas F Wightman," who will supply the "Wightman Process" to those suffering from Hemorrhoid or Piles, and diseases of the Rectum; his experience in the "Field Hospitals" of the "Fifteenth Army Corps," Gen Sherman, during the whole of the late war, was probably greater than Surgeons have in a life time, out of the service. He will, no doubt, give every satisfaction to those needing his services as "Assistant Surgeon" or otherwise. Thanking the citizens of Portland, and elsewhere in the State, Idaho and Washington Territory, for their confidence and liberality. I hope our short acquaintance has been of great advantage to all. The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure, the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks hollow, and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood, stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye regains its brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

Colds and Coughs—Sudden changes of climate are sources of Pulmonary and Bronchial Affections. Take at once "Brown's Bronchial Troches," let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight.

SPRING.

BY LIVAR.

Her lovely form—celestial sheen,
Bright Spring again to earth descends,
Her smile recalls the comely green,
And varied lines with beauty blends.

The warmer beams the sun bestows
As he a higher course pursues
Bright Spring distills, and blushing glows
As she her tender opening views

More sparkling streams the rippling rill
Her smile reclaimed from Winter's reign
More lovely blooms the daffodil
The kiss of Spring awoke again

Her brightening through lengthened day
At vesper sings the whip poor will
The joyous stars in bright array
With sweet accord the chorus fill

Her fragrant breath the zephyrs breathe
A lovely train of gentle mien
While blooming tints a chaplet wreathe
Bright Spring to crown the Floral Queen

April 1876.

A GAME FOR LIFE OR DEATH

A THRILLING STORY—SCENE IN MAXIMILIAN'S ARMY.

It was night in the camp of Maximilian's army and sounds of merriment were heard upon all sides for soldiers are ever wont to indulge in pleasure regardless of what the morrow will bring forth

In a tent in the inner circle of the camp sat two officers at a rude table upon which was marked with a lead pencil a chess or checker board while black and white buttons served for the men

Around the tent were stationed guards and both of the officers were unarmed while not a weapon of any description was visible in their canvas room.

They were prisoners—soldiers in the service of Juarez captured the day before but their appearance indicated that they were not Mexicans

Both men were of tall commanding forms and of easy, graceful address but where one had dark blue eyes, and light hair and moustache the other had eyes that were dark and black with brown hair and moustache

Both men were exceedingly handsome, and upon their faces bore the impress of noble souls and hearts that knew no fear

A love of adventure had caused them to leave their homes in the north after the close of the civil war in which both had fought bravely and cast their swords with Juarez to aid in driving from Mexican soil a German emperor

Capoul Monteith, the blonde officer, was a young man of wealth and good family, a New Yorker and a pet in society

Garnet Weston the brunette was a poor man a young lawyer in New York, of good though poor parentage He was possessed of superior intelligence and was fast winning a name when he crossed the path of Mabel Monteith sister of Capoul and a beauty and an heiress

So deep did Garnet love Mabel that he was miserable when not in her presence and he believed she cared for him but his pride was great, and he would not offer a pauper hand to a belle and heiress, and so struggled hard to win fortune and fame in his profession

One day an evil day for Garnet a pretended friend told him that Mabel was his promised wife, but that their engagement had not yet been made public

Like one in a dream Garnet Weston listened and then in despair determined to seek some more stirring field where the image of his lost love would not be ever before him

A month later found him a cavalry captain in the army of Benito Juarez, where a few weeks later, he was surprised to be joined by Capoul Monteith, who had also offered his services to the Mexican President

In an engagement, two days before they are presented to the reader in their tent they had been captured and carried into the lines of Maximilian

That night in camp they were playing a game of checkers, pour passer le temps and Capoul, who was an expert player was surprised to see how readily he was beaten by Garnet.

Suddenly a heavy tread resounded without the sentinel challenged there was a response and the next instant three of Maximilian's officers entered the tent, one of whom was an American, a Republican fighting for Imperial Mexico, against the Republic another was a flashy looking Frenchman the third was a Mexican colonel.

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to disturb you, but news come to night that Benito Juarez has executed a captain of our army, and I have orders to select one of you and march you forth to die in retaliation,' and the American imperialist looked sad over the duty he had to perform

"You cannot mean that one of us must die for an offense against Maximilian by Juarez?" said Capoul Monteith rising

Even so are my orders, sir but I know not which to select for my duty is most painful'

Let the gentlemen play a game for the choice—the loser to die,' suggested the young Frenchman

'A good idea, monsieur Gentlemen I observe you were playing a game of checkers when we entered, so set to work and play three games the one who wins two of them to escape, the other to die"

"When is the execution to be?" asked Garnet Weston

Within the hour sir.

'Very well Capoul I am ready for the game of life or death'

Capoul Monteith paced to and fro the tent with quick, nervous strides he was young had [illegible] of vast wealth and fond of life, and he cared not to be thus shot down like a dog, but he was a brave man and thought of Garnet Weston whom he had always admired, and half wished to be the loser rather than see his friend die

I am ready,' he at length said and the two friends, strangers in a strange land, sat down to play the game for life or death

Capoul Monteith played with the utmost caution, for, "if one must die, I have as good right to struggle for life as has Garnet" he thought.

Garnet Weston played with indifference a quiet, sad smile upon his face, and around them stood the officers, and the platoon that were to be the executioners of the losing one

Ten minutes past, twenty, and the game was won by Capoul Monteith whose face flushed crimson and then paled again.

Garnet Weston's face never changed an expression for the smile rested there.

The second game passed quickly Garnet making his move the instant Capoul had raised his hand, and surprising all by his reckless indifference, but cool manner.

Five minutes passed and the second game was won by Capoul Monteith.

"My God! Garnet, old fellow, I feel for you from my heart," cried the winner, tears starting to his eyes.

Garnet pressed his friend's hand the same smile upon his face as he did quietly

"I was ever a poor unlucky dog, Capoul but, my friend when I am dead look in my saddleroll, hanging there and the papers you find please deliver to the proper address and—and—Capoul, say to—Miss Mabel I left a farewell for her.

Gentlemen, I am ready

Curse on your Imperial humanity—Will you slay a man as though he were a hound?" cried Capoul angrily turning toward the officers, for it cut him to the heart to thus part with his friend

I yield to the fortunes of war Capoul and these gentlemen but do their duty

"Come let it be over" replied Garnet and shaking the hand of his friend warmly he was marched away

Half distracted with grief Capoul Monteith paced his tent his thoughts whirling and his brain on fire as he gazed at the stool where a short while before poor Garnet sat

An hour passed and the American officer of the Imperial army stood before him

Well,' hardly daring to ask the question

He is dead

God have mercy on him groaned the sorrowing friend

Yes Captain Monteith, he is dead and though I have seen many men die I never saw one face death with such perfectly calm indifference as did your friend

He gave the order to the platoon to fire and fell instantly but ere he died he wrote this note to you" and the American Imperialist handed a slip of paper to Capoul and turning left the tent

CAPOUL I gave my life away to save you for I loved Mabel too dearly to ever let her be other than where I could be sacrificed I dare tell you this now for I stand on the brink of an open grave 'Farewell' GARNET

A bitter night of sorrow passed Capoul Monteith in that lonely tent, for well he knew his friend had spoken the truth and when, months after, the star of Maximilian's crown had set in gloom and he resigned from the army of the successful Juarez he wended his way homeward with a heavy heart for he could not forget that Mexican soil covered the noble man who had fallen a sacrifice to save his life.

Three years passed away after the game of life or death and one pleasant evening, toward the sunset hour a horseman was riding slowly along a highway traversing a fertile valley of a Southwestern State.

Three years had added more dignity to the face and perhaps saddened it but otherwise no change had ever come over Capoul Monteith's features

Upon his right hand setting back from the road was a pretty little farm house, surrounded by fertile fields and the sight promising well for a night's lodging for man and beast, Capoul turned in at the white gateway and rode up to the front door and dismounted

The owner of the mansion descended the steps to greet him and Capoul Monteith stood face to face with Garnet Weston

My God! has the grave given up its dead! cried Capoul in dismay

No old fellow you find my flesh and blood ready and willing to give you a hearty welcome in this my home left me by an old bachelor uncle a few months since But come in I will tell you all

The surprised and delighted Capoul willingly accepted and around a well spread table that evening he heard how Garnet had been carried forth to be most bunglingly executed but a squadron of Juarez cavalry had appeared and frightened off his executioners ere the first platoon had retired and that a watchful ranchero had seized him and borne him to his ranch where through months of suffering he recovered and was able to depart from the house of his good friend

But it was long ere he could gain strength enough to reach Galveston Texas and there he met an old uncle who had carried him to his comfortable home with him

The kind old bachelor was one day thrown from his horse and night and day Garnet had watched by his bedside until death relieved him from his sufferings and the young man found that his uncle had left him all his wealth

'But old fellow why did you not write to let me know for you know not how I have mourned for you? asked Capoul

I did write to my old law partner in New York, and he said you had removed away none knew whither

'True poor Mabel failed in health and I carried her to Europe but we soon returned and to effect a change in scene and air I purchased a fine farm about two days' journey from here and there we now live Mabel is contented if not happy

She married—

'She married? Fiddlesticks' No she never had any idea of marrying any man excepting yourself and you went off to Mexico and nearly broke her heart

Three months passed, and the bachelor home of Garnet Weston had a mistress to preside over it—a queenly looking woman of twenty two, perhaps with dreamy, sad eyes and a face of wondrous beauty

That woman was once the heiress and belle of New York—Mabel Monteith—who had after long years married her first and only love through that game of life or death in the gulf washed land of Mexico

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Financial

FRIDAY EVENING May 5 1876

The general feeling in financial circles appears to be one of ease and with a somewhat increasing but still limited demand for monetary favors the banks and other loaning institutions report a fair supply of available funds at hand to meet any and all exigencies that present circumstances are likely to arise in the course of the season's business Rates are steady

A San Francisco commercial writer says of the financial condition there Money is very plentiful the crops look as promising as could well be desired but business is somewhat stagnant and the stock exchange is in a very panicky condition yet our theaters are crowded nightly all sorts of amusements are largely patronized picnics are flourishing and money is circulating from hand to hand with freedom Rates of interest are nominally unchanged from 1@1¼ per cent per month in commercial and 4@11 per cent per year in savings banks

The Freight Market.

In the Oregon trade but little preparations have been made as far as reported up to this time though there are about 15 vessels on the way to this port most of which have been or will be taken for the next crop

The freight market in San Francisco remains dull with few features of interest Wheat freights are entirely nominal and rates difficult to give with any accuracy Spot vessels if taken up for immediate loading would probably command an advance on previous quotations in consequence, though no improvement in the market strictly speaking would thus be shown Iron ships now on the way are freely offered at £3 5s with no takers The highest rates which operators are willing to give, and that only to a limited extent are £3 5s@[illegible] for medium sized iron and £3 for wooden ships. Parties desirous of chartering are insisting on the United Kingdom and Continent clauses as a sine qua non The ship Olive S Southard to arrive at San Francisco from Baltimore has been taken at £3, and the ship St Lucie now on the way to Manila and British ship Silverhow which recently arrived from Ardrossan are reported as having been taken prior to arrival for new crop loading Outside business is very quiet

Taken altogether there has rarely been a time when freights of all classes have been at so great a standstill The indications continue good for fair and possibly high freights next season but tonnage to move the new crop will undoubtedly be in good supply There are now 7 832 tons engaged wheat tonnage in San Francisco harbor for immediate loading and one ship for July 7 136 tons miscellaneous and 17 736 disengaged.

English Wheat Market.

Advices from Liverpool by mail of date April 5th state that at that time there were twenty two cargoes at ports of call most of which had just arrived, and the heavy stocks at the principal sea ports had such a depressing effect on the trade that most of the markets had given way The stock of wheat in England on March 31 was 855 533 quarters, against 122 789 quarters the same date in 1875 and the stock of barley 9,340 quarters against 14 727 quarters in 187[illegible]

The following from the last Mark Lane Express regarding India wheat is of interest The expansion of the culture of this cereal in that country must have a serious effect upon the grain markets of the world

The shipments of wheat from Calcutta have formed a very marked feature in the trade this season and the facility with which this class of grain can be sold shows that to the miller it must possess grinding qualities of no mean order Add to this the fact that prices range a little over 40 shillings per quarter, and it must be patent that with the enormous resources of land and cheap labor in India the prospect of selling English wheat at an average of 50 shillings per quarter is rendered rather dubious. Now that such facilities are offered for the transit of wheat from the East, the low class of grain from America and Russia is almost entirely neglected and the influence thus brought to bear on the Bourse on prices is a matter of hopeful consideration as the same quality of Calcutta wheat has recently been taken for the continent Flour millers there begin to appreciate the article and the extension of the English trade in this direction may possibly be looked for

General Trade

Is quite active with very few and unimportant fluctuations in quotations Recent importations of staple groceries are large among them Eastern and Sandwich Island sugars, and teas from China, Messrs Corbitt & Macleay, through one of the members of the firm who has just returned from a visit to China and Japan have made arrangements to import more directly than before the teas of those countries suitable to the trade of this country The first lot of 1000 chests under this new arrangement has just been received Messrs Allen & Lewis and Leveridge Wadhams & Co are also in receipt of assorted grades of sugar per Falkinburg which is [illegible] to the trade on favorable terms the latter firm in [illegible] the price of this staple if Congress shall ratify the reciprocity treaty which will in all probability be [illegible]

The advices from abroad are very unfavorably depressing the market for breadstuffs and though our quotations for wheat are unchanged they are entirely nominal and the cereal if offered will it is [illegible] could only be placed at our figures with difficulty

Shipping Intelligence

The steamship Oriflamme sailed for San Francisco this morning at 4 o'clock

We are informed that the steamship Geo W Elder of the O S S Co's line will sail from New York for San Francisco to morrow the press dispatches to the contrary notwithstanding

This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre grain weighed and ground chained by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette River for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre This land I will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages, on more favorable terms than they can ever expect to realize again THOMAS CROSS
